Class Prophecy

It is now 1978 and the Senior Class of 1968 has just met on Mars for a green cheese banquet. The occasion is the tenth class reunion. All the girls are wearing pink and white carnations in their hair to represent the class flowers and the boys are wearing green and white polka-dot suits to represent the class colors.

Being huddled in a small room, we are sitting near a push-button flight machine. The machine contains many buttons of various colors, each one representing a place in the U. S. As we push the green button, which naturally stands for Green Valley, we first see Rick Beal, now head manager of Beal's Iron Works, looking over his trophy for "Best Steel Contractor of the year". Butch Gilroy and Junior Land are both employed as one of the many truck drivers. Next, we see Linda Garman and Marilyn Dukes co-operators of the L&M Beauty Salon. They both have done their hair mint green for the occasion. At the Green Valley International Airport we find Bill Jibben trying to work as a mechanical engineer. He is constantly repeating the class motto, "Better do it, than wish it done", hoping it will get him somewhere! Taking a look at the recently built Green Valley Memorial Hospital, we find Connie Schumm working as a computer programmer, detecting the results of a brain transplant, which is now of the most simple operations. Turning ourselves to good old G.V.H.S., we find several of our classmates working as teachers. The school is now very large with a capacity of 6,000 students. Diane Urish is diligently trying to teach math. Terry Runyon is teaching Biology and is also the coach. He's got a great team this year - it hasn't won a game yet!!! Marsha Harris, Business Education teacher, is trying to help him with his problem. Green Valley now has a booming radio station, WBKSROTZ. Andy James is the "swingingest" D. J. there. He is also part time hippie.

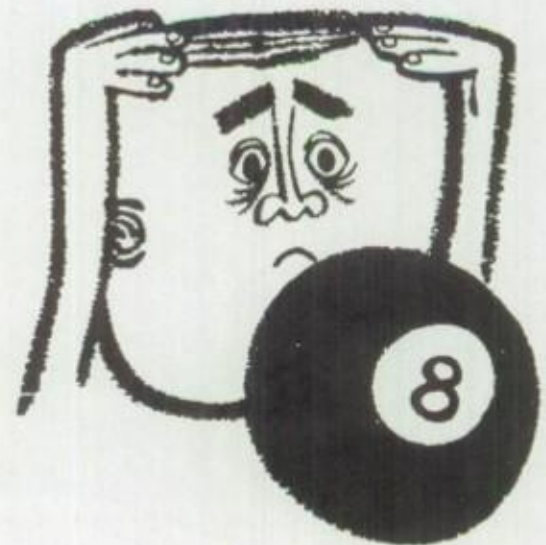

Pushing the purple button, for Peoria, we see Steve Berchtold working at Caterpillar. On weekends, he drives in the big races. Charlene Van Nattan is a secretary there and Dan Watts is a Data Computer Professor, earning and spending big money. At Keystone we find Gary Garman and David Ary both working as computer programmers. After many hectic years of schooling, they are now able to teach programming.

After pushing the red button, we find ourselves in Pekin. Donna Berchtold is working at Herget Bank while Linda (Rutter????) is a bookkeeper and Carol Scherer is a typist and file clerk at First Federal Savings. We find Sheryl Wiseman, now Mrs. Perry Sundell, a housewife with a brood of nine.

Next, we push the orange button and we realize that we are in San Francisco, California. We see Cindy Sheff, who is now Mrs. Larry Stoeher, a housewife and a part-time beautician.

After pushing the blue button we find ourselves in Washington D.C. We see Rick Larimore, long time lawyer, now a candidate for the presidency. Cathy Young is his private secretary.

As we push the white button, we bring ourselves back to our delicious banquet. We bid a fond farewell to the class and wonder where they will meet ten years from now???????????

Let us continue . . .

Your diploma is a ticket to the adult world . . . but good only for entrance. The best seats in the house are reserved for those who pay the full price: continued education and continued self-improvement.

And you can continue your education. At a university . . . at a community college . . . in an apprenticeship program of local industry.

By furthering your education you'll be better prepared to earn a place up front in the future of this ever-more-complicated, ever-more-demanding world.

To una "estudiante excelente"

You should consider the study of languages for a major. You do so well and seem to find it so easy and natural. It's been a real pleasure to have you in class.
